

ABSTRACT

A method of displaying a used wine cork while simultaneously preventing 5 residue on the cork from staining a surface on which the holder rests is accomplished by placing a cork from an opened wine bottle into a wine cork display holder, with the wine cork display holder including a base and at least two sidewalls. One or more end walls may also be included. The wine cork display holder may be shaped as a trough, and may slope upward from an end wall.

10